

WE NOMINATE

The 55 members of Princeton High School's 1961-62 Choir, ranging in years from '6 to 19, who stand on the verge of departure for a five-nation European concert tour which represents one of the highest honors ever conferred upon a teen-age musical organization in this country. While some financial clouds still remain on the horizon, there is solid and mounting evidence that a proud "home town" will combine forces with the Department of State and the parents concerned in providing the dollar support that will enable these 55 women and 22 men to emplane for Europe on June 11th—in time to participate in the West Berlin Music Festival as the only representatives of the United States.

The seeds for the 18-concert expedition, and the recognition of the Choir as the only high school group "cleared" by the Department of State for "foreign cultural appearances," were planted here last September when the Choir sang before the International Congress of Musicologists. Its rendition of two difficult 12-tone works by Anton Webern were received so enthusiastically that musicologists, returning home, started initiating the invitations that are about to be translated into fact. The Choir's performances, according to one observer, strongly indicated that "American musical culture has the potentialities of growth and renewal."

As the Choir carries forward its preparations on a round-the-clock basis, including the mastery of five national anthems, its able director, 42-year old Thomas Hilbish, notes that the appearances in Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, France and Switzerland do not constitute "any kind of entertainment-concert tour, or glee club junket." In essence, it is a scholarly pilgrimage, demonstrating before advanced seminars and faculty groups the quality of American musical education. "This is an opportunity," the sponsoring committee notes, "to prove beyond doubt that American secondary schools are capable of meeting standards which challenge those set anywhere in the world."

Almost buried in the press notices about the tour, and the Choir's achievement of near-professional excellence, have been the accomplishments, aspirations and high promise of its individual members. If the Office of Cultural Exchange had searched the nation for a group personifying a cross-section of American youth "at work," it would have had its troubles in matching the potential reflected by the Princeton Choir. Drawn from all segments of the Princeton community, and with musical ability and "a willingness to sweat" the only qualifications for membership, the Choir's officers can point with pride to the fact that every single member of the Choir is actively involved in at least one out-of-school service organization.

The Choir's roster lists 21 seniors, 20 of whom next September will be entering the colleges, universities or music schools of their choice. And apparently academic attainment and music go hand-in-hand, for the 1st, 2d, 5d, 7th, 8th and 10th ranking students in a graduating class of 366 are members of the Choir. This versatile aggregation, all of whose members have had a minimum of two years of a foreign language, "carries" a dozen varsity athletes, including the captains of football, tennis and track. There are debaters, editors, finalists in scholarship competitions, the president of the Red Cross, and some 25 members of the Student Council and Student Court.

For radiating the convictions and enthusiasm of an up-and-coming generation; for their great capacities for communicating to others their love for, and understanding of, the international language of music; for strengthening Princeton's awareness of the quality of its schools; they are TOWN TOPICS' nominees for

 Court and in Witherspoon because there was no water, but motorists quickly extinguished the uproar.

When Lt. Brian, The asphaltic flow began to be noticed on Saturday, and late in the day, Walter Jefferson, executive secretary of the Water Company, telephoned Borough police and asked them to patrol the town, telling residents to shut off sprinklers and refrain from filling pools and washing cars.

On Sunday morning, the First Aid and Rescue Squad offered to help the police, and Sunday evening, their offer was accepted. Bull-horns on slow-moving First Aid vehicles made gardeners and pool-dubblers look up and receive the warning word.

On Monday morning, Borough and Township police chiefs organized police cars to patrol the town. Mayor Henry Patterson declared a state of emergency at 3:45 p.m., Monday, thereby empowering the police to take action against any recalcitrant hose sprinkler. Action would have meant disconnecting the hose, and warning the home-owner of a fine, but there was no need, everyone cooperated.

On Saturday, as soon as the low pressure became evident, Fire Chief Alfred Packer and his assistants worked out a plan to use in case of fire. The police were to call the Water Company, which would then pump water only into the mains that funneled into the fire area. All others would be cut off. This plan was still in effect late Tuesday, and was to remain so until the pressure problem had been solved.

Police Are Called. During the weekend, Township police received about 35 calls asking "where is the water and why?" Borough police reported at least 40 calls on Monday alone, with no count made of the Saturday and Sunday calls.

"Here at the Water Company, we had many inquiries, but we had no calls from anyone saying there was no water at all," stated Mr. MacMillan. "For an opposite point of view, see 'Mailbox,' page 21.1.

The precise cause of the trouble was an enigma even to the Water Company for a time. Sunday night, Mr. Jeffrey, Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini that there was a broken main, and the restative undergrounds were told this also. (There was a small leak in one main, it developed later, but it was not enough to slow things to a dribble.)

Monday, Mr. Jefferson told Dr. Alan Kleinberg of the Township Board of Health, that insufficient pump capacity was to blame, and later it was thought to be low water-level in the wells.

One Water Company well is not in use, having been shut down in the bad-late disturbance of last fall.

"Having that well would certainly have helped us," Mr. MacMillan stated. "It would have provided about a million gallons a day more than we had."

Last fall, the Water Company was plagued by a persistent bad taste in the water. It was thought for a time to be chlorine, and later to be gasoline leakage from a Route One station.

Mr. MacMillan says that he is still not certain what happened to the faulty well. The company has cased it anew, and reduced its capacity thereby. "It was one of the finest wells we had," Mr. MacMillan says with regret.

P.U.C. Speaks. Robert G. Peschel, assistant director of the division of engineering of the Public Utilities Commission, was present at the Water Company's Tuesday press conference, and he said that the weekend drought could have happened to "a lot of water companies under various operating conditions." "Additional capacity or storage might have prevented what happened," he stated.

Person To Person

We got to talking about the invention of the wheel, and how much of civilization, ancient and modern, hinges on its development.

Cory S. Kammiller development. The earliest known wheels were found on the remains of chariots that dated back to 3500 B.C. in Mesopotamia or in Egypt, and were apparently made of wood. Apparently not known of them for another 2500 years. One might say that the wheel marked the beginning of ancient civilization and had untold effect upon all further progress. It appears that the water wheel had its beginning in about 2500 B.C. also in Mesopotamia, which gave man his first physical power greater than his arms and legs. Our earliest records indicate the first Windmill (another derivative of the wheel) was invented about 1000 A.D. in Persia, and no drastic improvements in it were made until the beginning of our own century. It seems that virtually all of man's great advances have been made in our own times. Incidentally, our business depends upon providing you with the best possible wheels and then keeping them turning smoothly and economically for you but here you won't find any "Big Wheels" — we're just plain folks, eager to serve you faithfully and economically. "but this is an unusual situation, not the usual kind of thing a company is confronted with."

This is the first time a situation like this has occurred in Princeton. In July of 1955 and again in July, 1957, the water levels were low because of drought and people were asked not to water lawns, but there was no severe pressure drop like that of last weekend.

Mr. Peschel said that the consulting engineers' survey would help the company to cope with its problems, and he added that these findings would be available as they were made, so that the company would not have to wait for a final report before taking action.

"The steps indicated are all the public can expect," commented Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman of the Township, but the public will expect action on the concrete proposals made by the engineers.

"I have complete confidence," said Mayor Patterson, "in the company, who will not drag its feet in getting an engineer down here."

By Tuesday morning, water pressure was only four pounds below normal, and Princeton was still co-operating; a housewife called the Borough police desk, and in a small tentative voice asked the officer whether he would be all right to wash her dishes and do a little laundry?

ROUND-UP

As the foregoing report dramatically indicates, the community has been dry and hot as May unfolds. . . no measurable rainfall in two weeks . . . a record high of 96 Saturday, with the thermometer topping 90 Friday and Sunday as well.

In fact, the minimum reading all last week was 50 Thursday morning . . . those days above 90 may pay one eventual dividend . . . the law of averages says that there are only a dozen days a year when the thermometer tops 90, so that three of them are out of the way already.

Three juveniles (17 year old) have been taken into custody by police and charged with severely beating two Princeton undergraduates last month . . . the incidents happened at night in two separate areas along College Road, with both youths requiring medical treatment.

The youths have been released in custody of their parents following a hearing before Judge Wilson Nolen. Good detective work by Patrolman Robert McAvie of the Borough and Patrolman Norman Servis and Detective Fred Parter of the Township resulted in the arrests.

Saturday's extreme heat was marked by three minor fires . . . parked cars owned by Dr. Thomas Shoemaker, 12 Edgehill Street, and Miss Lois Burkhardt of Trenton caught fire, the first under the hood, the second in the back seat, and both severely damaged.

A pile of logs back of Cloister Inn on Prospect Street broke into flames at 1:15 a.m. . . police and one piece of fire apparatus hauled the blaze, origin unknown.

EDWARDS IS NAMED
To Head Day Schools. C. William Edwards, outgoing director of admissions at Princeton University, has been named executive vice-chairman of Princeton Day Schools, Inc., a position comparable to headmaster.

His nomination for the salaried position was scheduled to become official at a trustees meeting Wednesday night.

"He will give a tremendous lift to the project," said Dr. Harold W. Dods, chairman of the board, in making the surprise announcement. His thought was echoed by Malcolm Muir, chairman of the school's $3 million campaign. Mr. Muir added that Mr. Edwards had been nominated unanimously by the executive committee.

Miss Pine's School and Princeton Country Day School have purchased a 70-acre site on The Great Road where preliminary work is now being done for their merged schools. Mr. Edwards will assume his responsibilities immediately and will occupy office space in "Colours" on September 1. A graduate of Princeton in 1936, he served as the University's director of admissions from 1950 until his resignation this spring.

WE'LL BE THERE
At By-Pass Hearing. The public hearing on the proposed Princeton-Hightstown Freeway (alias Route 206-A, and also known as Route 20) will draw a full delegation of Princeton area residents to the Grange Hall in Dayton this Thursday at 10:30 a.m.

The Princeton Chamber of Commerce will send a group of directors to observe the hearing, in line with the organization's policy of positive action in civic affairs.

In addition, representatives of a dozen different municipalities will be present—a number of them known to differ rather widely on the exact route the proposed highway should take. It is expected that the hearing will last the better part of two days, but not necessarily consecutively.

Sold Princeton Front. As advocated by various municipal officials here, Princeton Borough, Township and the University will unanimously back the route currently favored by the State Highway Department. Opposition, however, is expected from representatives of several Middlesex County municipalities and planning boards, which want the highway north and east of its present tentative alignment.

For this area, relief is sought from traffic now flowing into the heart of Princeton merely to reach the other side.

HEADS DAY SCHOOLS: C. William Edwards will direct the Princeton Day Schools on The Great Road.

ORIGINAL SKETCH: Protests have been launched and petitions are reportedly being circulated against expansion of Palmer Square on the vacant Nassau Street lot and the site now occupied by Upper Pine. Plans to build in this fashion are hardly new, however—they were a part of the original concept of the Square when it was first sketched for a somewhat somnolent, much smaller community in 1936. This drawing shows how the late Edgar B. Pearson and his associates felt the center of town would look when their revolutionary colonial reconstruction project was completed.

A by-pass that would detour several thousand cars and trucks a day would return several major thoroughfares (State Road, Bayard Lane, Stockton and Nassau Streets, Washington Road) to their original residential and local business-use character.)

Other communities, however, want the by-pass to center through them as a business incentive. One—Monroe Township—is hopeful that it would mean a new interchange for the New Jersey Turnpike in its heartland.

Thursday's hearing is, accordingly, expected to be protracted and a productive or widely divergent viewpoints. Once a firm route for Route 20 is adopted, its cost has already been forecast as upwards of $14 million for the 14 miles involved.

Scheduled to attend from the Borough are Mayor Patterson, Councilmen Walker and Austen, Borough Clerk Robert Mooney, Engineer Arthur Brooks, Planner Dodd McHugh. From the Township: Mayor Fairman, Planning Board Chairman Gerald Brees, Township Administrator Joseph Nini and others; from the University, Vice-President Ricardo Mestre and other members of the administration.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Choir, Chamber Appeal. We have had one meeting with the Borough Board of Education on the subject of our high school contract, and it was amicable and fruitful. Richard Pearson, president of the Township Board of Education, said at the Board's May meeting Thursday night.

Mr. Pearson said, however, that neither Board was prepared to issue a statement yet on the matter. In April, the Township informed the Borough that it could not commit future Township students to the high school until it knew how the Borough planned to handle the increase in high school population.

The letter from the Chamber of Commerce asking for a citizens committee to investigate a school merger was read. Mr. Pearson told J. P. Meyer, Chamber president, and Benjamin Palumbo, executive secretary, that the Board did not feel the question could be explored thoroughly before the September forum scheduled by the Chamber.

"We accept your suggestion for a study and an unbiasedly in principle," Mr. Pearson told the Chamber representatives. "Board of education often don't know what the people in a community think when an agency like the Borough Chamber takes an interest in our problems, we welcome that interest, and we hope to reach some agreement on a common study of the problem with the Borough Board."

Can We Help? The Board decided to ask its attorney, Gordon Griffin, whether it could legally help the Borough Board of Education underwrite the costs of the High School Choir European tour.

Mr. Pearson said that the Borough Board is prepared "somehow or other" to bridge the gap, between costs and contributions, and that he felt the Borough should not have Township and other sending

"I strongly urge the Board to support the choir, either individually or as a Board," said Dr. John McKenna, superintendent of schools. "A sizeable number of those singers come from the Township and it is innumerable upon us to support this wonderful organization. It is the best high school choir

Mr. Meyer told the Board that the Chambers of Com-whether they could help the choir.

In other business, the Board

the Community Park School

COURT TO DECIDE

In Radio Case, Will Radio Station WJWH have to tear down the six towers it has built in Hopewell Township?

The question will be decided Friday in Trenton, when Superior Court decides whether to make permanent a temporary injunction granted to the station to keep Hopewell from enforcing its order to demolish the towers. Further legal action may develop, however, if the finding of the Supreme Court results in an appeal by Hopewell Township residents opposing construction of the station in their area.

WJWH obtained a building permit on March 20 to erect the towers, and began to do so on April 18. At the May 8 meeting of the Hopewell Township Committee, a group of residents protested to Committee about the presence of the towers, charging that the zoning ordinance had been violated.

Although Committee pointed out that the zoning ordinance allowed radio towers in a

NO THEATRE HERE
For Summer time. The lights will be dark again in Murray Theatre this summer, and since there are no announced plans for a dramatic season anywhere else in Princeton, the community will apparently be without a summer theatre for the first time in 15 years. Last summer, the University Players collected a group of dedicated young actors — at least one of whom went on to off-Broadway success — and produced a season of drama in the gymnasium at Princeton Country Day School.

This group offered to Princeton the chance to see rarely given works like "Endgame," Ibsen's "The Lady From the Sea," "I Am a Camera" and two one-acters by Shaw, "Village Wooing" and "The Great Catherine."

However, there are no plans for a return engagement of this scattered company to P.C.D.

PCD Unavailable. "We have not been approached," says Peter Rothermel, headmaster of the school, "and if we are, we will have to say that our building is occupied with our summer school and we feel that

"Drunkard" In Rehearsal
Community Players' traditional springtime frolic in the fields of melodrama will be staged this year in Murray Theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings, June 15-16 and June 22-23.
"The Drunkard," under the direction of Garrison Ellis, is now in rehearsal with a cast of thousands, and the "oleo" acts, under Peter Warlock, Barbara Hutchinson, Tom Richardson, Jean Lovday, Leo Cohen, Louis Cohen, Michael O'Maher, Neil Holman and Dick Coen.
If the weather is fine, there will be tables and chairs under the Murray Theatre trees, with soft drinks and pretzels to buy for intermission munching. If it rains, there is the Murray loggia.

we should confine ourselves to that effort."

The last season in the University's Murray Theatre was 1960 when the University Players offered "Major Barbara," Arthur Miller's adaptation of Ibsen's "Enemy of the People," three short plays by Ionesco and "The Prodigal," a translation of the Orestes legend.

Last summer, Murray was turned over to the carpenters, who renovated the basement, modernized the dressing rooms, built a new wardrobe room and revived the lighting system.

In addition, the University's Department of Buildings repainted the auditorium and spruced up the audience's share of the little theatre. There are no plans for further renovations; Murray will just be locked up until fall.

Down the hill at McCarter, there will be shadows, too. No actors have appeared before those footlights in the summer for ten years. The last straw hat production was mounted there in 1952, bringing to a close a six-year commercial theatre which had operated under Harold Kennedy and Herbert Kenwith and imported Hollywood and Broadway stars.

Founded in 1930, the University Players group was revived in 1948 and produced a succession of worthy summer offerings, rooted by lemonade if not by air-conditioning, and satisfying to a community which is not usually content with ordinary theatrical fare. The most successful of the Player's summer seasons was 1954, which saw productions of "Camino Real," "Ghosts," "Twelfth Night" and a special adaptation of "Alice in Wonderland."

drama to be given June 8 and 9 in the Murray Theatre. Reunion Showcase have been created by Patricia Zippordi, who has designed for many New York productions.
Her costumes for "O. Dad, Poor Dad," her masks and costumes for "The Blacks," and her designs for Genet's "The Balcony" have all been cited by critics for their imaginative excellence.

"Calvary" is a dream-play involving Christ, Lazarus, Judas and the Roman soldiers who gamble for Christ's coat. Brooks Jones will direct the Murray production of the W. Yeats work and Conrad Sosa will compose a score. The play is one of three to be given over Reunion weekend. The others are John Drinkwater's verse play, "X.O." directed by Ron McManigal, the associate producer at McCarter, and Bernard Shaw's farce, "Passion, Poison and Petition," directed by George Blanchard '64.

GREENE COMEDY COMING
"Complaisant Lover." Graham Greene's comedy about a Dutch dentist and the complaisant lover of his roving wife, will be presented on the boards of the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, through this Saturday, starring Martha Scott.

Starting Monday, May 23, Playhouse producer, Michael Ellis will offer a new comedy, "Love Among the Platypi" which will play through June 9. Performances are at 8:30 Monday through Saturday and 2 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday.

In her Greene role, Miss Scott is making her second appearance at the Playhouse, having made her New Hope debut during the theatre's first season as Emily in "Our Town."

With her in "The Complaisant Lover" is Eric Elgar who speaks nothing but Dutch throughout the play in his first Playhouse appearance in 1955. Mr. Elgar played a role which required that he speak only French in his spare time. Mr. Elgar is a language teacher.

After "Love Among the Platypi" the Playhouse will introduce another new play, Robert Lewis' "The Advocate" which will run from June 11 through June 23.

CHILDREN INVITED
To "Pantomime." "The Deibel Wrote That a Way," a dance pantomime for elementary and pre-school children, will be given this Saturday in Lawrence Junior High School at 2.

Gary Randolph, dancer and pantomime, will present "The Deibel Wrote That a Way" under the sponsorship of the Princeton Chapter of the Women's American Organization of Rehabilitation Through Training (O.R.T.). Tickets may be purchased at the ETCETERA Shop in the Lawrence Shopping Center, or at the door on Saturday. Donations are 50 cents. Proceeds will be used to help needy

THE TENT IS READY
Music Circles to Open. Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical hit, "Flower Drum Song," will open the season for the Music Circus, Indianapolis, next Friday, June 1 at 8:30. After "Flower Drum Song," the Circus will present Meredith Wilson's engaging musical, "The Music Man," which will run for two weeks starting June 19.

Following these two will be "Cyrano," "Fiorella," "Three-penny Opera," "The Cincinnati Soldier," "West Side Story," "Cavats and Dolls" and "Bye, Bye, Birdie."

Performances this season will be at 8:30 Tuesdays through Fridays, 6 and 9:30 p.m. Saturdays and 7:30 Sunday. The Monday Night Jazz will present Dave Brubeck, Stan Kenton, the Dukes of Dixieland, Joe Greco, Count Basie, Maynard Ferguson, Les Brown, Gene Krupa, Ramsey Lewis, Duke Ellington, Cannonball Adderley and Nancy Wilson in 8:30 p.m. performances.

Two Sunday afternoon special scheduled for 2 p.m., will feature comedian Jackie Mason on June 24 and jester George Shearing on September 2.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Walk On the Wild Side (May 22-29) Laurence Harvey stars in this tale of star boarders at New Orleans bordello. June 3-10 Judy Taylor plays Kitty Twist, an imprudent, amoral and completely abandoned baggage. Cancellation before seven will be in more paid roles, will long be remembered as the sensuous, complex, sultry and poetess who was frustrated in an early and normal love for Harvey. She becomes the star attraction of the bordello and the particular love of its madam, Barbara Stanwyck. Salty Miss Stanwyck has a crippled, legless husband.

To go on, and to change pace, there is also Anne Baxter who plays the only completely normal woman in the story, the Mexican widow who gives aid and comfort to Harvey. The latter emerges as a plastic and perceptive actor in the role of Dink Linkhorn, a tower of strength who tries to rescue Capucine, his lost love, from degradation. Connecticut, explosively frank.

Moon Pilot (May 30-June 2) Youngsters and the unsophisticated may enjoy Walt Disney's lampoon of the space age. He makes the U. S. astronaut, Air Force brass, U. S. Senators and Federal security aides look pretty silly. It is a broad, slapstick farce with heavy-handed caricatures.

Tom Trpton, as Captain Richmond Talbert, is our hero, who refuses to "volunteer" to go to the moon unless he can say goodbye to his mother in San Francisco on a three-day pass. French maid and screen star Dana Sual makes her American debut as a beautiful young girl from another planet who meets Trpton on the plane. Edmund O'Brien mugs his way through a film as a frustrated and insecure Federal agent.

MAGIC MIRROR DOOR . . . The distinctively styled Magic Mirror door is an eye-appealing feature that is also highly practical. Made of double-paned and heat-tempered "black" glass, it effectively keeps heat in the oven. The Magic Mirror conceals the oven interior when the light is off. When food is cooking, a turn of a switch lets you see the complete interior, to check cooking progress without opening the door.

REVOLUTIONARY "SWING-AWAY" OVEN DOOR . . . A world of new cooking and cleaning advantages will be yours with the Westinghouse Built-in Oven. Because the door conveniently opens to the side, it swings out of the way for easier access to the oven. Especially helpful when cooking extra heavy or liquid-filled oven dishes. Cleaning is easier, too, because there's no stretching and reaching around a drop-down door.

PROGRAMMED FOR STYLE
Linen by Dansk. One of the most extraordinary collections of table linens ever loomed in is now available to customers with taste and the inclinations of a mathematician at Princeton Gourmet, Nassau and Harrison.

Designed by Dansk and woven by a Finnish mill, these place-mats, napkins, tablecloths and cocktail napkins come in such a complexity of color choices that you would need a computer to tell you how many different combinations there are.

Just as a start, we'll tell you that there are 60 different place-mat colors (actually only 39 at the Gourmet; something happened in transit to number 60). Each one of these has been thoughtfully matched to napkin colors in four different categories. For example, you may choose a set of four napkins in a matching color, a blending color, a surprising color or a contrasting color.

We looked at No. 39, which is "desert green," a mat with a golden green autumn look about it, and we paired it off with its matching color, "maple leaf," its blending color, "bitterscotch," its surprise color, "petrol" and its dramatic contrast, "cranberry." ("Petrol," in case you are curious, is a wonderfully vibrant slate blue. Can you imagine an American designer calling a color "ga-lyne"?)

The mats and cloths are woven in textured linen with a basketweave look, but the napkins are fine and smooth. By using the same colors in tightly or loosely woven textures, the designer has obtained a subtly contrasting effect almost as impressive as the dramatic color contrasts blocked out in the chart.

You, of course, can make whatever napkin choices you prefer—there is no requirement that you have "petrol" with your "expresso." Napkins are four for $7.80, and the 57 x 46 cloth is $10.95. Four napkins are $4.49 cocktails are $4.95.

Eight demi-tasses, shaped like tiny white shaving mugs, have been decorated auterly with a single green and rose geometric design, repeated on the side of the tall coffee-pot and the sugar and creamer, and again in the centers of the matching relish dishes.

From the same luscious, Gourmet has acquired a massive set of cast-iron cook-and-serve wear, splendid for cooking outdoors because the pots will never show the smudge. Tops are gleaming copper with brass handles, rivets and fittings and the handles are smooth wood with big brass loops for hanging.

Choose from the two saucepans, two frying pans, four casserole and the charcoal brazier or the alcohol warming unit. All will be used as much next winter as they will be right now.

As delicate as these are, stanch, a gathering of modestly priced Finnish glassware graces the glass shelves in the Gourmet's display room. There are three cylindrical vases with weighted bottoms enclosing tear-drop shapes, a set of six smoked ice-cream glasses, straight as tubes, and a sextet of clear glass marlinis with straight sided pedestal bottoms to give them a masculine look not often found in fine glassware.

Grill On Glass

A long, slender clear glass pancake turner is the most spectacular utensil these days at the Gourmet. It is a Swedish glassblower's grill with a one-inch hollow glass handle 28 inches long, bound at one end with bark to keep your hand cool, and finished at the other with a round, flat glass thickness.

You could put hamburger in the round plate and startle your guests by casually holding the glass over the charcoal, or you take the matching member, a grill with a ladle end instead of the round plate, and use it for ladling out bonyon-sine portions of salad or baked beans.

We think the best use of these grills is the purely decorative one. The most functional kitchen would leap to startled life if the pair of glass beauties were hanging by the stove. They are $9.95 each.

ouch bags which you can probably even use for lipstick and comb after you have removed the dress and put it on.

Among the dresses and bags on this rack at M. Gill's, we found a nylon print with poppies, cornflowers and daisies sketched, apparently, with a pastel crayon on a white background. There is a bateau neckline and a narrow waist.

A tiger-like print in cream and brown and black makes a straight-hanging jersey which can be belted in if you wish. It is sleeveless with a round neck. Hot pinks, royals, greens and turquoise fall in together in another jersey, this one with three-quarter sleeves.

On the sport deck, we find Mary Gill with Mister Pants in aqua, orange, lime, olive, and goodness knows what else. Bermudas in this line, too. Matching print, blouses suit color to design with imagination: pastels in a floral print against pale blue; olive, gold and orange in a good honest modern print or yellow leaves outlined in olive against gold.

Sailors on shore leave will wear a sailing top in red or white with cord shawl and roll-up sleeves and pairs who like to leave 'em dangling will—

MUSIC In Princeton

YOUNG COMPOSERS AIDED
By Friends of Music. Eight composers in search of performers have been rescued by the Friends of Music Compositions by Roger Sessions' graduate students at Princeton University will be presented by the Friends at 3:30 Sunday in the auditorium of U.C.L.A. All that the composers need now is an audience. The program ranges widely in the realm of musical thought. An ensemble of flute, mandolin, viola and bongos will play Donald Sur's "Two Carens." Joseph Kravetz will perform "Two Movements for Solo Violin," by Donald Bohlen. Six voices and five instruments will be heard in Mark de Voto's "Plum" (Song of Mourning) and in his "Two American Songs."

Philip Batstone will conduct his "Two Songs for Male Chorus," and his "Toccata" will be played by pianist Stephen Pruslin. Richard Tryhall will perform "Three Pieces for Piano."

The program also includes "Aubade for Eight Instruments" by George Burt, "Sonata for Viola Alone" by John Harbison and played by Scott Nickerson and Robert Taylor's "Composition for Nine Instruments."

Mr. Batstone is a former student of Henry Kaufmann at Boston University and of Boris Blacher at the Berlin Hochschule fuer Musik. Mr. Harbison also studied composition in Berlin with Mr. Blacher and conducting with Dean Dixon in Salzburg.

Mr. de Voto was a student of Walter Piston at Harvard. A recipient of a Canada Council Award.

The concert is supported by the Roy Dickinson Welch Memorial Fund and the Committee of the Creative Arts Program and the University. It is open to the public without charge.

PHILHARMONIC TO PLAY
African Symphony. Fela Sowande's "African Folk Symphony" will be presented by member of the New York Philharmonic at 8:30 next Saturday, June 2, in Carnegie Hall. The program of Sowande compositions is sponsored by the African Cultural Group to initiate an African Cultural Centre in New York City.

The Nigerian Government commissioned Mr. Sowande, who is now living in Princeton at the home of Rex Goreleigh, to compose the Folk Symphony to mark the young nation's Independence Day, October 1, 1960. He is probably the first African composer to utilize western art forms in the development of African traditional patterns. His compositions, based on Nigerian folk melodies and Ghana "highlife" tunes, are written in terms which the westerner can readily understand.

The African Cultural Group was established in May, 1961, and its stated purpose, as a nonprofit, non-political organization, is to project a true image of African Culture in the Western Hemisphere.

THE GARDEN

Hidden Fortress (May 23-29) is a comparatively unknown Japanese film, directed by Akira Kurosawa of "Rashomon" and "The Magnificent Seven." Set in 16th century Japan, against a background of rampaging war lords and battle for imperial power, it is the story of two runaways: soldiers who discover a handful of gold coins. Before they can search for the rest of the treasure, they are pressed into service by a mysterious samurai and his lady. The ensuing adventures are packed with suspense. Kurosawa has used the camera extremely skillfully, heightening the excitement of what might be just another thriller. Comment: Japanese western.

Black Tights (May 30-June 5). Bubbling, gay and colorful as a boxful of ribbons, the Parisian confection boasts four of the most famous names of the dance world, a happy boulevardier commentary by Maurice Chevalier, magnificent photography and plenty of charm and verve.

Roland Petit, of the Ballet de Paris, did all the choreography for this two-hour show and wrote two of the four sequences. His wife, Zizi Jeanmarie, remembered for her dancing and singing in "Hans Christian Andersen," dances the lead role in two segments and Cyd Charisse and Noira Shearer dance the other two. Of the four approaches to love told through dance and music, two are the classics, Edmon Rosland's "Cyrano de Bergerac" and Brel's "Carmen." "The Diamond Cruncher" and a "A Merry Mourning" are original stories by Petit. Balletomanes may quarrel a little with the departure from traditional forms and the emphasis on story, but most moviegoers will be charmed by the music, the brilliant settings, costuming and the expressive, frequently sensuous, dancing.

Jeanmarie's fiery "Carmen" is easily the best, with Cyd Charisse a close second as the predatory widow in "A Merry Mourning." Comment: the French at their most playful.

From Lady Manhattan, Sunaire, a new cotton that is said to iron itself as it washes and dries—which is ought to be something to see—well, anyway, Sunaire has been used for some new Lady Manhattan blouses now racked up in the blouse department at Bamberger's.

Each of the three is a classic, with Tommy collar and short sleeves or no sleeves at all. Each is a print, done in melon, blue or green; gold, blue or aqua; gold, blue or green.

The great thing about these houses, aside from the fact that they will be in print all summer, is that you can throw them into the washing machine, tumble them in a drier or hang them over the bathtub to drip dry, all with equal and spontaneous success. The iron is an anachronism, the wrinkle a relic.

Bamberger's offers the Lady M. in Sunaire at $4.98 for the sleeveless, $5.98 for the short sleeve and $9.98 for the roll-ups.

CARS COME CLEAN: Perhaps the last cars to be washed in Princeton before the no-wash water-saving edict were cleaned at Saturday at the Unitarian Church by zealous teenagers. Soap, water and sponges were all in abundant evidence as the boys and girls ended and polished. Here Connie Baring-Gould, (left), and Martha Wigmore sponge off a hard-top. Meanwhile, on up at the pike at the Princeton Airport, the horses were losing at the Rodeo for the benefit of the YMCA, and farther on at the Pine Bar Club, young riders were displaying their skill in a horse show. Just a typical busy Saturday in Princeton. (Staff Photos)

DUNHAM TO SPEAK
To Miss Fine's Alumni. E. Alden Dunham, Director Designate of Princeton University's Office of Admissions, will speak Tuesday when the Miss Fine's School Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting and luncheon at the Princeton Inn at 12:15.

For the past four years, Dr. Dunham has been assisting Dr.

James B. Conant in his studies of American public education. He will speak informally about the Conant studies as well as some of the current issues and developments in education in this country. He is a 1953 graduate of Princeton University and was awarded his doctorate degree in education from Columbia University last year. Arrangements for the luncheon were made by Mrs. H. Richard Parsells, vice-president of the association. Miss Shirley Davis, headmistress of Miss Fine's, will also speak.

TO BREAK GROUND
For Music, Architecture. Two new buildings, one for music and one for architecture, will arise on the University campus following groundbreaking ceremonies June 13. The Woolworth Center of Musical Study and the School of Architecture Building will form a quadrangle with 1879 Hall and Palmer Lab, the Woolworth Center facing 1879 Hall at the southwest end of the quadrangle and the architectural building located at the north end.

The music building, incorporating the latest developments in the insulation of sound, will contain classrooms, faculty offices, practice and listening rooms and a rehearsal room large enough for a 100-man band, orchestra or glee club. Records and tape recordings and multiple copies of scores for teaching, will be in a collection protected by humidity and temperature controls. The building will also have a complete recording studio.

The architectural building will be in two sections joined by a link. Offices and a library will be in the smaller, southern section and drafting rooms, classrooms, studios and an exhibition gallery will be in the larger section. Architects for the Woolworth Center are Moore and Hutchins of New York and for the architecture building, Fisher, Nes and Campbell of Baltimore. Turner Construction NURSES NEED Shortage At Hospital. At least one and possibly two nursing units at Princeton Hospital will have to be closed this summer because of a shortage of nurses.

The summer nurse shortage is an almost annual occurrence at Princeton Hospital because, as husbands graduate from various institutions in the community, their wives leave their jobs to go with them to other parts of the country. These women are prime sources for some of the Hospital's best nurses.

Practical nurses, nurse aides, and orderlies help to supplement the nursing team, but do not solve the problem entirely. Because a minimum number of professional registered nurses must be available to each nursing unit to maintain standards.

Closing of the units will permit the start of major remodeling and renovation in certain parts of the hospital. Final plans will be announced as soon as possible, according to John W. Kaufman, hospital administrator.

SEWER POSTPONED

For Great Road, The Great Road sewer move, far from away into the future Monday night after Township Committee tabled the resolution appropriating $16,000 for its survey and design.

The move came after more than two hours of wrangling discussion between Committee on the one hand, and Great Road and Hillside Avenue residents on the other, the Hillside residents opposing the resolution because they believed it would delay construction of a Hillside sewer, and The Great Road contingent opposing it because they do not believe a sewer up the road is necessary, in one opinion, wise—at this time.

The motion favoring the resolution was made by Committee member John S. Mount and seconded by Maurice P. Healy, Jr. After the lengthy discussion Mr. Healy announced that he was withdrawing his second because of his position on the board of Princeton Day Schools, an institution he believed on The Great Road.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman then asked someone else to second the motion, but Thomas P. Cook and William L. Wilson both declined to do so, and the resolution fell without a vote and, was, of necessity, tabled.

"Fight Promised," I am going to fight this sewer," announced Mrs. Helen Benson, The Great Road. "I will not allow a survey to be made on my property."

Mayor Fairman asked Mrs. Benson to put her remarks in writing, and then asked attorney Gordon Griffin for an opinion.

"You have legal authority in the statutes," Mr. Griffin told Committee, "but it would be costly court action. And you have the right to survey to make a plan without awaiting the outcome of a condemnation suit."

John Hite, Democratic candidate for Committee, objected to the resolution because he said four sewers would converge at the foot of Mountain Avenue causing an even greater load on present sewers than they have now.

SPRING—AND RADAR—ARE IN THE AIR: Township police are spending considerable time these days running radar tests on various heavily-traveled streets. Early one morning last week, three cars exceeding the limit on Washington Road were ticketed, nine others on Princeton Pike.

He said he had removed a manhole cover in the area and found the sewer flowing half full. "If it is half full now in a drought, it will overflow in a rainy spell, and you want to pour more into it."

Need Cited. "You are ignoring the need for a Great Road sewer," Mr. Mount told a title. "The present condition affects people downstream and the community as a whole. What does one manhole show, anyway?"

Residents of Hillside Avenue, plagued by faulty septic systems for four years and forced to import their drinking water, have prevented a plan asking for a sewer. Last month committee voted to ask for Federal funds—$18,000—to design a Hillside sewer with force main.

Mayor Fairman told Hillside residents Monday night that Administrator Joseph Nini planned to go to Philadelphia this week to present the Township's request in person.

If Federal aid is not forthcoming in 30-40 days, Mayor Fairman said, Committee would go ahead and plan for short-term help to Hillside with a package plan. Committee believes that the larger and more costly force main solution would be better in the long run than the package plan.

Mrs. George Cramer, 634 State Road, told Committee she had contracted hepatitis after moving to the Hillside area and suggested a link be-

Mayor Fairman said that Committee hoped for a joint application with the Borough that the Township could move

He said that both Borough

CHILDBIRTH EXPLAINED
By The Lamaze Method.
Mrs. Marjorie Karmel of New York City will speak at a public meeting on the Lamaze method of childbirth Tuesday evening at 8:15. The meeting, sponsored by the Princeton Childbirth League, is open to the public and will be held at the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Karmel will show a French film, "Naissance," which describes the entire La-maze method from early pregnancy through delivery. She is the author of "Thank You, Dr.
Lamaze" and one of the founders of the American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics, an organization whose aim is the promulgation of the Lamaze method in the United States.

A former patient of Dr. La-maze, Mrs. Karmel learned of his unique theory when she had her first child in France.
Her lectures are "exciting and full of very personal dedication," according to Mrs. Robert Parmenter, president of the League.

ter, soil, wild-life and natural resources in West Windsor will ment; Seidon L. Tinsley, con-

DR. PRATT TO RETIRE
To Write. After retirement, I plan to spend a year at the typewriter," says Dr. Carroll C. Pratt of the University's department of psychology,
"and after that, I hope to return to teaching."

His writing will reflect an effort to apply to art and aesthetics some of the important new developments in recent studies of visual and auditory perception.
"New facts in regard to the way we see and hear have brought about marked changes in perceptual theory, but these have not been carried over to aesthetics, where they should play an important role," states
Professor Pratt.

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, May 22, 1952: Dr. Lyman Spitzer, chairman of Princeton University's Department of Astrophysics, spoke to the International Congress of Astronomers in New York, on the possibilities of space ship travel. . . TOWN TOPICS reported:

"Among his suggestions for the future was a space ship which would enable man to hop from an earthy satellite to those that attend other planets in the solar system. To eliminate dangers of radiation, Dr. Spitzer suggested building the ship in two parts—a pilot-engine room and a light control-car which would hold the crew and which would be towed by a cable 60-odd miles long."

The New York Times had this to say of Dr. Spitzer's address:

"Dr. Spitzer saw no possibility of landing and taking off from a major planet with such a two-piece craft. If we wanted to spend billions in the necessary research, Dr. Spitzer thought, we could ultimately build a 10,000-ton space ship which would be driven by a 2,000,000-horsepower atomic pile."

"Thousands could be carried in such a vessel. Other solar systems could be visited in the course of centuries. Whole generations would be born in interplanetary space and learn how to continue a journey begun by their ancestors. Astronauts," The Times concluded, "shrink from nothing."

Today, years and possibly decades ahead of the time schedule in effect for space travel a short ten years ago, mankind expects to be on the moon by 1967. "Astronauts" are now "astronauts," but as usual, The Times was right: "They shrink from nothing."

Princeton Country Day School was reading its annual fair, with Mrs. Samuel Hamill and Mrs. Alan Tredennick as co-chairmen. . . Princeton Group Arts scheduled its second annual square dance, with Mrs. Theodore Vreeland heading the committee.

Two Miss Fine's School seniors (Mary Frances Fenn and Leslie Van Zandt) each won two college scholarships and other members of the Class of 1952 were Joan Barton, Barbara Gartner, Maria Goetz, Daisy Harper, Janet Lawall, Jean Samuels, Cynthia Smith, Beverly Stewart and Marina von Neumann.

New Jersey announced a point system to sideline chronic offenders among its motorists, with 12 such demerits bringing revocation for periods of a month or more. . . those who forfeit their right to drive because of numerous convictions will, upon restoration of their license, receive red cards which will serve as licenses on one side and a record of their violations on the other.

In view of the deteriorating international situation, high-lighted by the Korean war nearing the start of its third year, the World War II Ground Observer Corps was to be reactivated. . . road-side block volunteers were once again being recruited.

An open house tour of the $250,000 addition to the West Windsor Township School was scheduled. . . Headmaster Daniel J. Dwyer headed the committee in charge.

The Junior Community Players and Andree Estey's ballet groups were set to present "The Sleeping Beauty" in McCarter Theatre. . . "Macao," starring Jane Russell and Robert Mitchum, was at The Playhouse and is now on TV. . . The Garden was offering "My Son John," Helen Hayes first picture in 15 years.

In sports, Princeton High School's track team walloped Semerville, 85 to 32, to record the 34th straight victory for Coach Irwin Weiss. . . Co-Captain Buster Thomas ran a sizzling 50.7-second 440.

Army and Princeton, defending co-champions in lacrosse, were tied at 9-all in their game on University Field drew to a close. . . the code first in a goal, but the referee said he had first blown his whistle for a penalty. . . the cadets fired in another goal, but the timekeeper said his pistol had misfired to indicate the end of the game and the goal didn't count. . . a double overtime resulted in two goals for each team, a final score of 11-all. . . continued protests by Army.

The thing that makes Haspel Sir Perior feel so cool is its extreme lightweight and "breathability". No suit can feel comfortable if it doesn't breathe. "Breathability" is woven into this Sir Perior fabric. The special 75% Dacron® polyester and 25% Cotton gives it great porosity and resistance to wrinkles. It stays fresh in weather that would wilt a Camel. Of course, Sir Perior is completely wash and wear. In alives, blues and greys.

"Where Thousands Save Millions"

Question of the Week

Question: If you could give one bit of advice to today's graduate, what would it be?

Where asked: Around town

Joseph L. Pierson, Route 206, history teacher, Princeton High School: There's always room at the top for the best.

Mrs. Martha Gilbert, 48 Nassau Street, teacher, Anthel School: I would say to college graduates, both men and women, to look for the solution of any problem on the inside rather than the outside. Whatever the problem or trouble may be, don't try to change the outside, but rather look for a new attitude within themselves.

Robert Richardson, 13 Southern Way, engineering consultant. Get to work!

Mrs. Elmer Rodweller, Chestnut Street, housewife: Get the money while it's there to be got. Take the first job that comes along and get all you can. You can always change later if you want.

Mrs. Russell Davison, 192 Harrison Street, housewife: It's a high school graduate, continue to get as much education as they can. Even college graduates, I would say the more education they can get, the better off they'll be. But I think the most important thing for them is to remember the college rule and that, while money is nice to have, it isn't everything.

Anthony Pisci, 76 Mountain Avenue, lift truck operator: I say high school graduates should go to college and college graduates should continue to go to school and become engaged in some type of atomic research. I feel atomic energy will be the main source of strength, power and defense of the United States for years to come.

Mrs. Barbara Lorber, Hopewell-Arnold Road, Hopewell, teacher: I would say for that person to listen carefully to all the counseling he can get and then choose for himself what he wants to do. I feel it's important they appraise their interests and abilities in choosing their life's career rather than deciding on something that sounds good or is a popular occupation. Also, there are other things in the world besides college, even in Princeton.

Miss Mary Van Marier, Blawieburg, stenographer, Firestone Library: Whether they use their subject or not, to keep up with it and not lose the knowledge they've obtained. I think students should build up their character in high school and not think they can do it after they get out. Then it's too late.

Henry H. Bucher, 28 Alexander Street, missionary: I would say work hard, don't be afraid of hard work, and don't expect something for nothing. Everybody wants to get something for nothing today. And be honest.

Mrs. Henry Sullivan, Mill Road, Princeton Junction, housewife: They have no idea what an asset it is to learn a foreign language. Courses are being offered this summer at Princeton University for free. A foreign language can give a person more than anything I know, it's just as important as learning mathematics. All these young people going abroad today — they're at a disadvantage if they can't speak at least one foreign language.

Mrs. David V. Cresson, 124 Washington Road, housewife: High school people I tell to go to college, college graduates, to graduate school. I think it is extremely necessary in this day and age. College has become too commonplace.

Mrs. Robert Nozick, 219-A Halsey Street, graduate student: To continue school because learning is everything. Not so much for what it can get you but for its intrinsic importance.

Elvin Weber, 193 Birch Avenue, assistant laboratory technician: Even though they are getting out of school, get all the education they can. I think that is the most important thing in a person's life.

Mrs. Sigurd Peterson, 254 Jefferson Road, teacher: Be yourself, believe in yourself, and think of the other person. I feel you have to do this before you can help others. That may sound self-centered, but I don't mean it to be that way. There's too much of that. I feel if you can do these things you will have a much broader outlook.

Mrs. Joan Roper, 405-A Devereaux Avenue, elementary school teacher: I think they can continue learning; don't feel that because they are out of school, learning stops at this point. It is really just beginning for them. What they've gotten is the fundamentals to help them continue their education. The world's best books and the classics can be read now in their spare time and they can take more courses at night. In other words, their education is not at an end.

Water Company Under Fire.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Over this past weekend, Princeton was visited by a brand-new problem — temporarily drought.

For several hours on Sunday afternoon, and on into the evening, one entire section of the Township didn't have a drop of water. Now this may seem a relatively minor inconvenience, but to those who were affected, it didn't seem so. Obviously it was uncomfortable to be unable to wash, cook or drink on one of the hottest days of the year, but if a fire had broken out in one of these waterless neighborhoods, I'm afraid the situation might have become more than just a little uncomfortable.

However, the real concern I have about this entire matter is the Water Company. What were they up to while the pipes ran dry? It was evident early in the weekend that something was wrong as water pressure dropped by the minute.

A call to the Water Company brought the reassuring news that they didn't know what was wrong, but they were sure it would be all right. When the water stopped altogether, the Water Company still didn't know what was wrong, but they were working on it.

This is the second incident in the past few months concerning the Water Company and its customers, and the information that the individual gets is not the kind of thing that inspires much confidence in the Water Company. It wasn't too long ago that we had the mysteriously "spiked" water — water that tasted and smelled like Diesel fuel. At that time the Water Company assured us that it was perfectly safe, just heavily chlorinated, and we were encouraged to drink heartily. It was more than a little distressing to read in the local papers a few weeks later that an one really knew what had gotten into the water, or how it had gotten there.

Frankly, I'm uneasy. Does this Water Company of ours know what it is doing? If not, does the Township Committee know what the Water Company is doing?

Keep the Square Green.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Everyday when I walk down Nassau Street, past the bronze tiger erected as a tribute to Edgar Palmer, I am grateful for the small island of shrubbery surrounding it, but I am even more grateful for the expanse of grass on the opposite corner. To me, this seems one of Mr. Palmer's greatest benefactions to Princeton and I dread to think that it may soon be swallowed up by a massive block of brick buildings.

Reaffirming the wisdom of the New England village green, enlightened architects and city planners today are realizing more and more the importance of open spaces in the heart of town. Let us hope that Palmer Square, Inc., and Princeton University will continue to keep Mr. Palmer's memory green!

VIRGINIA EGBERT
(Mrs. Donald D. Egbert)
30 Nassau Street

Editor's Note: No one quarrels with the advantages of "open green space" where practical, but Edgar Palmer and his original P.M.I. associates foresaw the eventual need for building Palmer Square East more than a quarter century ago. See sketch, page 3.

"Well-Nigh Unique."

To the Editor of Town Topics: It seems almost inconceivable to me that the Princeton High School Choir is having difficulty in making definite its trip to Europe this summer. I have the impression that the Princeton community knows that its high school is excellent, but that it does not know that the choir is well-nigh unique.

During my 15 years of conducting glee clubs at universities on both coasts, I have acted as adjudicator at a number of secondary school choral festivals. At none of these events have I heard any group that comes close to the standard.

PUBLIC HEARING THURSDAY, MAY 31 AT 8 P.M.

Final Action will be taken at this meeting.

WE BELIEVE THE "TOTAL RESTRAINT" DOG ORDINANCE SHOULD BE DEFEATED BECAUSE:

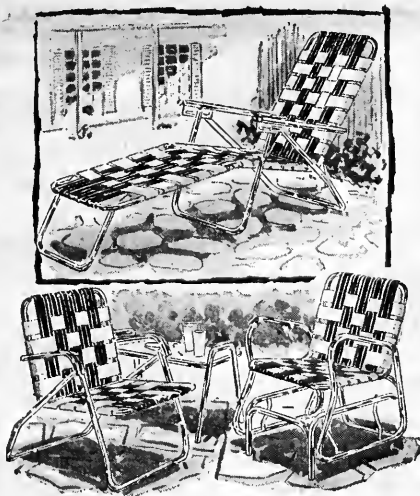

1. The moderate measure has not been given a trial and we feel that restrictive legislation should be held to a minimum.
2. This ordinance is obviously inappropriate and unenforceable in more than 65% of the Township land area which is in large lots or undeveloped. Laws which can or should be ignored weaken the whole legal structure.
3. The "moderate" ordinance provided machinery for handling vicious dogs. We do not feel that minor squabbles between neighbors are the problem of government in a community of mature citizens.
4. The application of "City Rules" to Princeton would be one more step in the urbanization of our community which most of us deplore.

If you have not yet signed a petition against this ordinance and in favor of the moderate measure, please call:

ards of both repertoire and performance maintained by the Princeton High School Choir. Moreover, before coming to Princeton I would have found it difficult, if not impossible, even to imagine secondary school performances of Bach, Haydn, Stravinsky and Webern done with such mastery.

In short, the achievement of Thomas Hersh and the High School Choir is extraordinary, certainly in the United States and even in Princeton. Surely I take particular delight in seeing preconceptions upset. I find myself amazed in advance at the spectacle of a certain number of Europeans discovering dramatically that, at least in one American community, teen-agers have a musical alternative to rock and roll and standard arrangements of the most "transitory popular tunes."

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I did not notice the lean gray dog searching in the gray underbrush until my own little mongrel, with keener perceptions than mine, suddenly uttered a plaintive cry. I dared not feed much at first. Then an animal leaped fearfully out of the cover and under pawed for quick flight, but standing her ground and watching my approach with eyes that were wary and wise! —oh, so wise!

A glance told me she was starving and I listened until the house for food that should reassure her as to my intentions: though in my first condition I dared not feed much at first. She had been someone's pet, perhaps some child, milk-sown, loved her and mourned her sudden disappearance and failure to return. Gently I made her welcome, gave her food at frequent intervals, until she could safely assimilate a normal supper.

She spent the night curled on the porch and greeted us in the morning with gratitude and joy. Already her appearance had improved and as I gave her the petting and attention she craved, I tried to plan a satisfactory future for her. I could not keep her; that I knew, but there was a young dog, apparently healthy, lonely and in need.

She was past boxer though quite small of frame, with beautiful, eloquent brown eyes—then deep wells of hope and trust. Looking into those steadfast eyes, I resolved that her aimless wanderings must be halted, the direction changed.

Vaguely, I recalled hearing of achievements by the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League. Surely if an animal had ever needed rescuing, this one did! I called Mrs. A. C. McGillen, executive secretary of the League (WA 1-6122), and the result was heart-warming. Mrs. Graves not only knew what should be done; she did it. Because of her knowledge, sympathy and sincerity of purpose, a happy dog—her safety period of isolation now passed and the desired spaying accomplished—rejoiced in the love and security of a happy home, the bright light of a faithful friend.

The Princeton Small Animal Rescue League fills an important niche in the economy of Princeton and vicinity. Unusually sensitive, are for one reason or another, inevitable and the satisfactory disposal of them becomes a problem. The League attempts to cope with—without cruelty—those who are homeless. With no animal members where they might be loved and valued for the friends they become.

For all of us the Rescue League exists; may we use it, help it, cooperate and find it a wonderful instrument to our hands for the help and the eradication of injustice to helpless and unfortunate animals.

Workshop Was Stimulating.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The workshop on nonviolence held Saturday, May 12, at the First Presbyterian Church attracted people from various parts of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. About 130 attendees but unfortunately a relatively small number came from Princeton itself.

The speakers presented so much carefully prepared information on a timely subject that those of us from the local area who were present felt to arrange another such workshop next year, though possibly in a somewhat different form. Our friends and neighbors don't know what they missed.

Although Albert Bigelow was in the hospital and unable to take part, the other speakers maintained such a high level of excellence that the day was an extremely rewarding one. Dean William S. Nelson of Howard University delivered a scholarly opening address on the subject of the history and the philosophy of nonviolence, tracing the idea of "universal ethics" against "the tribal ethic" back to the Hindu Vedas 2000 years before Christ, on through the idea of the brotherhood of man expounded by Christ and then to the practical application of this idea on a large scale by Gandhi in India. James Farmer, executive secretary of the Congress of Racial Equality, spoke of the history of the Negro struggle in the South and of the insistence of its leaders, partly because of their own connection with the Fel-

"Fighting 69th" to Meet

More than 150 members of the "Fighting 69th" Infantry Division will gather for their annual reunion at the Princeton Resiliants' the weekend of August 17, 18 and 19.

Lon L. Quickle, program chairman, is in charge of business and reservations for the reunion and men who wish to attend should address inquiries to him.

Princeton Resiliants' who were members of the 69th are, in addition to Mr. Quickle, Bernard Ridgely Conk, Edward J. Leary, Charles E. Potent, Leo P. McGillen, Joseph M. Peron, William M. Morgan and Thomas M. Hillman.

Shop of Reconciliation on the practice of nonviolence.

Bradford Lytle urged the consideration of a nonviolent approach in the matter of national defense, a position similarly espoused last year by Dr. Jerome Frank speaking in Alexander Hall at the Princeton University student response. James Peck ended the conference by speaking both of the first Freedom Ride in which he was severely beaten just a year ago and of the very recent sailing of the "Everyman," the small boat launched in San Francisco by the Committee for Nonviolent Action to sail in protest into the Pacific testing area.

He remarked that although he will continue whenever possible to work for desegregation he also feels he must do what he can to stop the arms race. He said that equality for the Negro won't mean much if we're all blown to bits by the earth and so if he had been elected he would have initiated as one of his crew members of the "Everyman." Peck was one of the crew of the "Golden Rule" which sailed in similar protest in 1958. He spent 60 days in jail as a result.

In addition to the formal speeches, there was panel discussion in the morning and in the afternoon there were four discussion sessions. The section on the techniques and discipline of nonviolence was particularly stimulating.

This section was led by Glenn Smiley, associate director of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, who has had a great deal of experience with actual training sessions in the South at which those who expect to put themselves in unpleasant and even dangerous situations like sit-ins are taught how to act in a nonviolent manner. Several lively impromptu scenes were enacted by the "students" of the Princeton Workshop, including one in which a sit-in at a lunch counter was acted out. This was a vivid demonstration of what might happen in one small instance, at least, of a nonviolent struggle.

We who got so much out of the Workshop hope that next time we can reach more Princetonians of color, especially those who because of church connections should by that token have serious interest in nonviolence. Nonviolence, for a Christian, might be defined as a concrete attempt to put Christ's teachings into practice.

He also submitted to the contest an Italian mouse with violin and cheese, and the mouse on an old-fashioned bicycle (see page 19) which he had originally designed as an announcement for the birth of his son.

On August 21, Mr. McDowell and the other winners will receive Award of Merit certificates from the magazine at ceremonies in New York. He will also receive a display plaque.

SPORTS In Princeton

TITLES RETAINED

In Tennis and Lacrosse. Complete domination of the Eastern Tennis Association and the Ivy Lacrosse League were achieved again this spring by Princeton teams — the only such championships to fall to the Tigers during the academic year now drawing to a close. John Curran's tennis players completed their second season unbeaten, compiling an 11-0 mark to run their string of consecutive victories to 23. Latest victims were Navy and Army, both by the identical 9-0 scores that were the virtual hallmark of Princeton success this season. Of the 11 opponents the Tigers defeated, only three won a point apiece, and every Princeton singles player was unbeaten for the season.

It was another case of the "contest" Saturday on unbanked Emory Field, where Ferris LEAK TEAM SURPRISES. With Easy Van Over Cornell. In 15 years now that Princeton had defeated Cornell in track, and when the Tigers finally won strong enough to make the Thursday measure, they did it with a vengeance. Winning 14 of 17 tests, they routed the Red 117-3 to 315.

Highlight of the meet Saturday was the high jump at 6 feet, 8 1/2 inches credited to sophomore John Hartnett of the Tigers. A new Princeton and Palmer Stadium mark, it passed a national record of 6-8 that had been set as far back as 1936 by Cornelius Johnson in an Invitation Meet.

Captain Ed Thibault, a Lawrenceville resident completed his dual meet career with a winning toss of 213 feet, 9 1/4 inches in the javelin. An arm injury that slowed his progress after a fast start for his early years here has healed and he may do well in the ICA-A meet at Villanova this weekend.

LOSING STEAK GROWS

As Errors Pile Up. What is undoubtedly one of the poorest baseball teams in the long 163-year history of the sport at Princeton is currently mired in a seven-game losing streak. In its last four contests, it has been charged with a total of 26 errors.

You have to go back to the mid-thirties to recall comparable play, but the odds are that even those puny teams were never as gully of the low caliber of ball that Princeton displayed Saturday in losing to Navy. Infringingly enough, the Tigers had the visitors on the ropes going into the ninth, with the scoreboard showing Princeton on the long end of a 5-4 count despite five misplays to date.

The last round was a nightmare for sophomore pitcher Gerry Skey, who had yielded only two earned runs to a Navy nine that was battling for a possible championship in the Eastern League. Skey lost every rally to victory after the Tigers edged a 4-1 middle lead with a four-run rally in the last of the sixth.

In the top of the ninth, however, he forced batter after batter to hit ground balls to the infield and his defense committed a series of errors. The shortstop failed to charge a bounding ball and then threw wild for the first misplay.

The third baseman took too much time in blowing a runner back to second and then threw into the dirt for a second error. The second baseman took a grounder, waited to tag the runner coming into the bag instead of the bag itself and hit the ball knuckled out of his hands as the lead run crossed the plate.

Highlight of the meet Saturday was the high jump at 6 feet, 8 1/2 inches credited to sophomore John Hartnett of the Tigers. A new Princeton and Palmer Stadium mark, it passed a national record of 6-8 that had been set as far back as 1936 by Cornelius Johnson in an Invitation Meet. In all, the Tigers were guilty of four errors in one inning, six unearned Navy runs cascading round the bases. The last three came on a 400-foot homer over the centerfield fence, but the damage had been done long before that. Earlier in the week, Army had topped the Tigers at West Point, 7 to 2. They have a game Saturday at 4 on Clarke Field against Rider, with Yale (twice), Colgate and Lafayette also on the schedule.

NO GO AT WORCESTER

For Tiger Crews. A sixth-place finish in the 1966 annual meet cost the Princeton crew any chance it had of qualifying for the finals of the Eastern spring championships Saturday on Lake Quinsigamond at Worcester, Mass. The Tigers' time of 6:58.8 for the 2000 meters was the poorest of any of the 12 varsity entries —

Many of our depositors, of course, are businesses, and who won the high and low hurdles in 16.1 and 22.1, was able to throw the 215 lbs. The defeat was the losers' fifth in seven dual meets.

Perhaps the chief victim of the Trenton first-place sweep was Princeton's Gary Mount. Gary threw the 500° for his best performance ever and "the first time anyone from Princeton since Nick Kovalevich has broken 50 feet," said Groninger. "Nick was a super-thrower for PHIS in the weight and javelin events about six years ago." To beat Mount, Wayne Bethena, only a sophomore, broke the existing THS mark with a record toss measuring 54' 3/4."

Another "should-have-won" loser was George Bensinger in the 800. Bensinger was leading Trenton's Fred Hunter until the last foot, according to Groninger, when unaware of how close Hunter was, he ceased back only to have his opponent throw his shoulder forward and break the tape first. Both were timed in 2:03.1.

SEASON NEARS END

For PHIS Nine, The Princeton High School baseball team will play its final games during coming weeks to close out the 1992 season. The team is currently 3-8.

Coach Harry Zoll's players will face Trenton High Tuesday and Somerville on Friday. Both will be away contests. The team will be at home for a Tuesday finale against Hamilton, starting at 3:30. Hamilton and THS each defeated the Blue and White earlier in the season and the Little Tigers would like nothing better than to avenge those losses.

Another tournament of PHIS this year, Hunterdon Central, got its come-uppance here Friday afternoon when the Little Tigers defeated it, 5 to 4, to avenge an earlier Central triumph. Captain Dave Lansing singled home the winning run in the last inning after Central had scored three times in the top half of the frame to tie the score at 4-4.

The winners scored single runs in the third and fourth innings. The scoring came on a single and stolen base by Greg Stett and a double by Ray Britton for the first tally and a triple by Paul Walstad. Walstad then scored on Jimmy Case's sacrifice fly.

A double by Teddy Skazr, singles by Jack Walstad and Stett, and Britton's second extra base hit, a triple, netted the Little Tigers only two runs in the fifth. Walstad was out at the plate in a close play between hits to help short circuit the rally.

The visitors opened the last inning with four consecutive singles, scoring two runs. This outburst brought on Dave Shields in relief of Jim Quinn. Shields humiliated the visitors to just one more single and one run, but not before Central had tied the score. The tie lasted only briefly. Jack Wal-RUNNING'S EASY! So said four welchmen on the Princeton track team, with a quartet from Cornell accepting the challenge for a special relay event (not to count in the scoring) during Saturday's track meet in Palmer Stadium. The photographer caught Stan Medina and Ed Wehsemeyer, who usually throw the hammer, completing a baton-pass with adequate poise, but the two Cornell heavyweights collided and fell a moment after the picture was taken. stad walked and Stett followed with his third hit of the day to set the stage for Lansing's game-winning blow. Shields got credit for the win, his first.

Britton Batting .405. With one week of play remaining, Ray Britton, junior second baseman, continues to pace the Little Tigers in slugging. His 15 hits in 37 at bats for a fine .405 average leads the team. Ray also tops the RBI department with 13.

Trailing Britton in batting are Stett, .360; Paul Walstad, only a freshman, .278; Lansing and Jimmy Case, .219; Jack Walstad and Quinn, .161; Skazr, .142; and Tom Yolt. The team batting average is .207.

HUN NINE SPLITS

Ends Losing Streak. After five consecutive defeats, the Hun School ended its victory drought by defeating Admiral Farragut Saturday on its home diamond, 6 to 3. The decisive blow in the game was Gary Grover's three-run homer in the last of the sixth, breaking a 3-3 tie.

Hun jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Grover, Al Staller and Paul Sawdye. It added another solo tally in the fifth on a single by Howe Taylor and a long double by freshman second baseman Lonnie Kaplan. Hun coach Sandy Bing said he was especially pleased with the game Kaplan played and that the tall Trentonian had come a long way since the beginning of the season.

Larry Haggerty, who started on the mound for the Red and Black, ran into control trouble in the fifth. An error by the Hun shortstop, two walks had led Hun to defeat in its previous losses.

Pingry scored all the runs it needed in the first inning when it rapped Hun starter Howie Taylor for four hits and four runs. "It was enough to carry them through," reported Bing. Thereafter, Taylor settled down and pitched one-hit ball the rest of the way.

Hun out-hit Pingry, 7 to 5, but the only one that did any damage was Al Staller's triple, scoring Hal Young who had singled in the fifth. Staller then came home on an over-throw by the center fielder at the plate.

FIRST NATIONAL WINS

In Bowling. The championship in the Princeton Industrial Bowling League was won this year by the First National Bank, with a team competing together for the first time.

After finishing second during the first half of the season, the bank's entry started slowly in the second half but eventually rose from last place to first in the standings. The Crescents, first-half winners, were then defeated in a roll-out for the title.

Normal Luck was least conspicuous. Other members were Donald Schanuel, David Campbell, Robert King, Augustus Hyler, Gordon Clayton, William Rodefied and Gilbert Turner.

UP AND OVER

Jaycee Horse Show Set. New jumps have been constructed for the Pennington Jaycee annual Horse Show on Sunday. The show grounds have been improved and a larger number of entrants is expected than was drawn by the two previous shows.

Four of the show's five divisions carry points toward the Garden State Horse Shows Association award to be presented at the end of the year. The Equitation division, open to juniors only, will include two GSUSA high award classes. The GSUSA divisions are Junior Working Hunter, Pony, Open Hunter and Adult Amateur.

The show will begin at 9, with the more interesting events scheduled for the afternoon. There will be ample space for parking and a small donation of 50c for adults and 25c for children is asked for admission. The proceeds will finance civic projects sponsored by the Jaycees.

MIDGET ALL-STARS SET

The all-stars are chosen by the managers of each team in the two leagues. William Barclay of the National League Giants and John Fitzpatrick of the Yankees in the American League will serve as assistant managers. There will be no admission fee to those who have purchased season tickets; otherwise the admission will be 25c per person.

Summer Tennis Planned

An enlarged community tennis program for Princeton area boys and girls was announced this week by Mrs. Lewis S. Kraft, Junior Instructor and member of the Middle States Lawn Tennis Association, Junior Development Committee.

Norman Van Arsdale, Director of Physical Education at Township Schools, and William Humes, varsity coach at Princeton High School, will join Mrs. Kraft in providing lessons and opportunities for competitive play. A town tennis league will be formed, and an August tournament which will include junior players from Lawrenceville and Trenton is planned.

Instruction will begin the week of June 25, continuing until August 31. Students may register on a weekly basis, or for any of the three-week sessions starting June 25, July 16 and August 13. Details may be obtained through Mrs. Kraft (WA 4-4737.)

BRING YOUR SNORKEL

To Skin-Diving Class. Junior and senior high school boys and girls with snorkels, fins, masks and an affinity for deep water are invited to join a skin-diving class which will start at the YMCA on Tuesday, May 29, at 7 p.m. Class sessions will be two hours.

Junior divers must be 12 years old and senior divers must be 17 and older and must pass a physical examination and a swimming test.

After the May 29 session, the course will be given on Saturday, June 2, and June 9 from 7-9 p.m. Each diver must provide his own equipment. Additional information may be obtained from the YMCA office, WA 4-4024 and application blanks may be obtained from the office on Avalon Place.

GIANTS WIDEN LEAD

IN YMCA Midget League. The defending champion Giants are leading the National League with a 5-0 record after three weeks of play in the YMCA Midget League. The Indians occupy the top spot in the American League on the basis of four wins in five games.

The schedule this week sends the Pirates against the Braves at Marquand Park, the Cardinals versus the Giants at Van Dyke Field with the Red Legs opposing the Dodgers at Valley Road. On Friday, the Athletics and the Tigers will clash at Valley Road; the Orioles meet the Red Sox at Van Dyke Field, and the Indians take on the Yankees at Marquand Park. All games will start at 6:15.

In a make-up game played Saturday on the PCD diamond the Cardinals outslugged the Braves, 15-12. Chris Sowers was the winning pitcher and helped his own cause by hitting out two hits. Rick Goetz and Pepper Provenzano also hit safely for the winners.
